Second Project Description:

    In this second project, called the File Lock System. This project is when you click the file, which will open a screen called the password. Then, after you type the right password, it will open a file. Then after you've done the file, you will click the system, and then it will appear your choice if Yes / No. If yes, then type Y, then it will lock the file if no, then type N. I research on YouTube to code it, and then it works. I code in a notepad that you cannot install the WinRAR application.
